Wind and Flood Make Awful Havoc in Lower California.

BIG BUILDINGS MELT AWAY

torm Began Mildly and Increased Rapidly to Cyclone Force, Rivers Burst Their Bounds, Houses, Men. erand Children Carried Away and Vessels Supposed to Be Lost.

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 14.—Private letters

arly this month. At La Paz on September 30 a slight wind, and became a gale as the day wore wind, and became a gale as the day wore on. By 5 p. m. the storm had reached the fury of a cyclone and Arroyo De Las Mendozas, running through the southerr part of the town, overflowed its banks.
A small dam had been formed by the natural action protecting the streets from the Arroyo, and this was speedly washed away. The Arroyo, which had assumed the properties of a river flowed through the proportions of a river, flowed through the streets in the lower part of the town and flooded the market place.

House after house, adobe and frame, numbled and neited, or tumbled, as their foundations washed out, until by dark, thirty houses were swept away and as many families left without shelter.

Some of the largest business houses of La. Paz were in the way of the flood and sev-Paz were in the way of the flood and several succumbed, including a large store owned by Jose Maria Lopez. His big from safe was washed half a mile from the spot where the house stood.

The scenes among the poor families washed out of their lones were heartrending, as all their clothes and bedding were lost and the rain continued to fall in torrens, while the wind was so high that the air was full of flying missiles.

At one time everybody in the city was panic stricken, as at dark the Arroyo continued to rise and threatened to flood the entire city.

tinued to rise and threatened to flood the entire city.

Many hastily took food and clothing and struck out for higher ground, believing the city to be doomed. The consternation was greater from the fact that the creek had been dry for years, and no such flood had ever been seen.

On the day following the flood attempts were made to get at the amount of damage done and to rescue many persons in dangerous predicaments further un the creek. The storm still continued, however, and practically nothing was done.

Reports came in of lives lost here and there and several bodies were washed into the bay. So far as can be learned there was no tidal wave, all the loss resulting from the sudden and extreme rise in the Arroyo, which has its source in the high mountains, and runs rapidly down to La Paz.

STEAMERS PROBABLY LOST. At the time the letter was sent, just after the storm, rumors had been received at La Paz of damage and loss of life at San Jose Del Cabo, Todos Santos and San Jose Del Cabo, Todos Santos and other little towns on the end of the peninsula, but nothing definite was learned.

A letter has also been received from one of the officers of the Mexican gunboat Oaxaca, at anchor in Guaymas Ray, describing the fearful hurricane and expressing fears that the steamers Diego and Mazattan have been lost.

He says the steamer Williamette Valley, due at Guaymas on October 4, did not arrive until the 8th, after a terrible experience along the coast in the gales.

The Williamette Valley is, therefore, not expected to arrive in Sau Francisco before the 18th instant. She is due at Ensemada on the 16th.

MERELY A SCARE.

Dr. L. L. Frederick, 329 East Capitol street: "No, sir; it's a scare. The number of cases of typhoid is subnermal in the northeast, and those which have come to my attention have been of the very mild-est type. There have been, perhaps, a larger number of malarial fever cases this fall than last, but typhoid is very scarce. That which exists can be traced to pump water, excepting these cases which have been imported—that is, brought home by people who have spent the summer away."

Dr. W. P. C. Hazen, 511 East Capitol street: "I think that fewer cases of typhoid fever have been brought to my attention this season than last. I am confident that no more have come to my notice. There is sually some typhoid at this time of year usually some typicol at this time of year, but at present the number of such is very small indeed, and the mortality very light. As far as The Times can learn no date has been definitely been assigned for the Washington meeting, but it is more than likely that the 31st of the present month will be chosen.

Mr. Metzerott has donated the use of his music hall for the main meeting, but it is probable that overflow gatherings will be held elsewhere.

The Times cheerfully opens its columns to any suggestions from citizens in regard to the movement.

They believe in local self-government. They know that if France had stood aload in the strangle for American liberty, the colonies would have had a harder and longer fight than they did. The citizens of the District want to say so, and for the reason the call has been issued.

All vocations are represented on this call. Ministers, physicians, lawyers, business men and labor leaders. Each one was willing to add his mane, and glad of the opportunity. Many were ready too, to show their sympathy in a more practical manner, and offered to attach to their names a generous amount of money. They are ready to make their offer again when the proper time comes.

Ministers and physicians were ready enough to help the callaions. They thought the matter should have been taken up before, and knew it could not come any too soon, now. They represent the undercurrent of feeling which runs through the homes of the citizens who have but little to say until they are forced to the front. In each case every man stood for freedom. But the business men are the ones who were intensely interested in the movement. They were grateful for the opportunity of helping such a cause along. They found time to sign their names, though their places were crowded with customers.

They know that one of the men who brought her to Mrs. Tracy's house was a trained nurse named Elitott, hired by a walker to make the journey with her, and that the other was a cabman. From this point the myslery of the case begins. The fear of foul play is mingled with the wonder of the medical profession at the unnrecedented duration of the comatose state.

It is thought that there may be a clot or effusion of blood on the brain, causing congestion, the result of a blow or fall. Since Thursday Mrs. Walker has murmured at times about being shut up in a cell, and seems to be asking some one to release her.

During the past week a call has been quietly circulated among the citizens of Washington for a Mass-Meeting of those who sympathize withstruggling Cuba.

Below is given the call in full and the names attached.

brought her to Mas. Tracy's house was a trained nurse named Edinot, hired by — Walker to make the journey with her, and that the other was a cabman. From this point the mystery of the case begins. The fear of foul play is mingled with the wonder of the medical profession at the unmercedented duration of the comatose state.

It is thought that there may be a clot or effusion of blood on the brain, causing congestion, the result of a blow or fall. Since Thursday Mrs. Walker has murmured at times about being shat up in a cell, and seems to be asking some one to release her.

Physicians are keening her alive by the aid of stomach pumps and electrical treatment.
